

Cavanagh Wins In Detroit By Over 150,000

DETROIT (UPI)—Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh swept to an overwhelming election victory Tuesday and with him drew a liberal pro-Cavanagh majority on the Common Council including one Negro.

The apparent liberal trend among the voters also defeated, by a slim margin, a proposal which would have banned fluoridation of the city's water.

Cavanagh, bidding for a second term, won by more than 150,000 votes, or better than two-to-one, over his opponent, businessman Walter C. Shemie.

The sweeping vote of confidence for Cavanagh was heightened by the defeat of two incumbent anti-Cavanagh conservative council members.

Liberals In Control
The election of former Mayor Louis C. Miriani and the Rev. Nicholas Hood, a Negro, to the council dropped conservatives Thomas Pindexter and Anthony Wierzbicki from the nine-man body. Cavanagh had upset Miriani in the race for mayor in 1961.

Detroit had been the largest U.S. city without a Negro councilman and besides Los Angeles the largest city without fluoridation in the U.S. The first and only Negro councilman in Detroit resigned in 1963.

As a result, Cavanagh now will have a more sympathetic council with pro-Cavanagh liberals commanding five of the seats.

The defeat of the fluoridation ban proposal was a surprise. Some staunch backers of fluoridation had predicted victory for the anti-fluoridation forces.

The proposal's defeat now would allow the Common Council to carry through on its 1963 vote ordering fluorine to be added to the city's water supply. More than 49,000 signatures had been gathered by opponents of fluoridation to force the issue on the ballot.

Other Cities Affected
The fluoridation ban proposal was defeated 191,203 votes to 185,593. Suburban Detroit communities which tap the city's water supply would be affected by the addition of fluorine to the water.

Wayne County voters elected four Circuit Court judges with Blair Moody Jr., son of the late Senator Moody, leading the field.

Moody had 278,504 votes while Thomas J. Foley collected 222,874 votes and Charles S. Farmer had 196,445 votes.

Harry J. Dingeman Jr. edged Joe B. Sullivan for the final Circuit Court spot. Dingeman had 187,398 votes to Sullivan's 176,104.

Milliken Signs Aging Citizens Tax Relief Bill

LANSING (UPI)—Acting Gov. William G. Milliken today signed into law the Senior Citizens Homestead Tax Relief Bill that will grant about $15 million in tax relief next year.

The act will grant tax exemptions to persons over 65 who own homes with state equalized valuation of not more than $10,000. These persons will not have to pay property taxes on the first $2,500 of the equalized valuation.

The bill was passed in the spring session, but failed to get immediate effect necessary to get it into operation next January. The Legislature re-passed the measure this fall, granting it immediate effect.

Milliken vetoed a companion bill last week that would have granted relief to senior citizens who rent their homes on the grounds the Legislature had failed to provide sufficient revenues to pay for the estimated $6 million cost next year.

Milliken also signed three tax bills that will:

—Provide property shall be assessed at 50 per cent of its true cash value in accordance with a requirement of the new state constitution.

—Require property tax statements to include the state equalized valuation or a formula to compute it after Dec. 31, 1966.

—Delay the effective date for showing the state equalized valuation on the property tax roll and statement until Dec. 31, 1966.

Crash Kills 30 French Soldiers

PARIS (UPI)—Thirty French soldiers were killed Tuesday in a plane crash in French Somaliland in East Africa, the Defense Ministry reported today.

A spokesman said the DC3 plane crashed on landing at Obok Airport. The plane was carrying an army sports team from Djibouti to Obok.

Cold Air Ends Balmy Spell

By United Press International
Cold air pushed into the great plains today displacing conditions which Tuesday brought record high temperatures. Temperatures below freezing gripped the northeast.

Bismarck, N.D., recorded a 74 Tuesday, equalling the highest temperature for the month of November set in 1931. Valentine, Neb., saw 82 and temperatures in a vast area were generally in the 70s.

The cold air movement signaled the end of the unseasonable warmth.

The lowest temperature recorded in the adjacent 48 states this morning was 17 at Limestone and Old Town, Maine.

Elsewhere, skies were mostly clear with the exception of rain in southern Texas, northwest California and southwest Oregon.

Lindsay First GOP Winner In 20 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. John V. Lindsay gave the GOP its biggest lift since Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned from Paris by proving today that the Democrats could be turned out of city hall in New York.

This blow to the Democrats was offset in Tuesday's off-year elections only in part by the election of Democratic governors in New Jersey and Virginia.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes was re-elected in New Jersey by a landslide. Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. was elected governor of Virginia by a comfortable plurality, apparently by less than a majority of the vote which was spread among four candidates.

But Lindsay's paper-thin victory was the big political event, although he is not universally admired by Republicans because of his position on the liberal fringe of his party.

He provides the GOP, still shaken by its 1964 election disaster, with a new face. If he can show that New York is a governable city he can become a candidate or at least a powerful voice in the selection of candidates for future presidential campaigns.

Machine Beaten
Comments from national party headquarters were muted. In a statement issued before the New York City contest was settled, Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey called the New Jersey and Virginia state elections "a solid endorsement of President Johnson and the program of the Democratic party."

In a later statement, GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss said all Republicans should be cheered by gains made in key cities like New York, Philadelphia, Louisville, Ky., and Akron, Ohio.

Lindsay, 43-year-old congressman, defeated city controller Abraham D. Beame, 59, a product of New York's Democratic machine. William F. Buckley Jr., a Goldwater Republican and Conservative party candidate who ran to spoil Lindsay's chances, polled less than 15 per cent of the vote. Beame blamed Buckley for his defeat, claiming he siphoned off normally Democratic votes.

Lindsay is the first Republican to be elected mayor of New York since Fiorello H. LaGuardia, another fusion candidate, won 24 years ago.

Legislature Lost
The New Jersey election was a personal triumph for Hughes, an upset victor in a close election four years ago. This time he defeated Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr. by a margin of more than 400,000 votes.

Hughes' landslide also swept the Democrats into control of the state Legislature for the first time since 1913. This result left the GOP in control of both houses in only six state legislatures.

Normal state issues were almost lost in the New Jersey campaign. Dumont staked everything on his demand that Hughes press for the discharge of a Marxist Rutgers State University professor who was eager for a Communist victory in Viet Nam. It failed to sway many voters.

Godwin won the governorship of Virginia by defeating A. Linwood Holton, a Roanoke attorney who captained the most ambitious GOP campaign ever conducted in the state. The winner was backed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, conservative chief of the state Democratic organization, and by the AFL-CIO and prominent spokesmen for the Negro community.

William J. Storry, Virginia Conservative party candidate and John Birch Society member, trailed in third place and George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, came in last.

As expected, the Democrats retained control of the legislatures in Virginia and Kentucky, two of the four states with legislative elections Tuesday.

But in New York state, where the Democrats won control of the legislature only a year ago, incomplete returns indicated that the GOP had regained control of the Senate.

Bridge Destroyed
A 20-foot section of the bridge plunged into the river below. An American military spokesman confirmed today that a U.S. Navy jet was shot down Monday over North Viet Nam, but the injured pilot was rescued by helicopter crews when he parachuted and landed in a grove of heavy trees.

The spokesman said the Navy A4E Skyhawk was hit by Communist 37 mm anti-aircraft fire while attacking a bridge about 45 miles south of the city of Vinh.

A sonic boom created a brief scare in Saigon today. The thundering crash rattled windows at 10:55 a. m., sending fears through the city that Communist terror squads had set off another bomb.

The fears were allayed when the military police radio announced that the boom had been caused by a supersonic jet flying over the capital.

Baby Boy Lost
NEW BUFFALO (UPI)—A vast search was under way today for Timothy Roberts, 2, who has been missing since Tuesday afternoon when he disappeared from the yard at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts of Sawyer.

Personnel from six law enforcement agencies, about 200 volunteers and a State Police dog were participating in the hunt.

The boy, who has brown hair, brown eyes and weighs 35 pounds, was wearing a light blue sweater and diapers when he disappeared. The temperatures were about 50 during the night.

Streams in the area were dragged during the night long search.

Pacifist Dies In Pentagon As Human Torch

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A young pacifist protesting American involvement in Viet Nam put himself to the torch Tuesday, perishing in flames beneath the Pentagon office window of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Thronged of homeward bound Defense Department workers were streaming from the building's main entrance at 5:30 p.m. EST when Norman R. Morrison, 31, of Baltimore, his infant daughter in his arms, calmly ignited his kerosene-soaked clothing.

Child Unharmed
An Army colonel, an Air Force sergeant and several other persons attempted to beat out the flames. But it was too late for Morrison. The infant, 1-year-old Emily Morrison, was unharmed.

"He was a mass of flames — a human torch," said one witness. "When I looked around, the flames were leaping about two feet above his head."

Morrison was dead on arrival at an Army dispensary at Ft. Myer, Va., a few blocks away from the Pentagon. A coroner said he had suffered second and third degree burns over 70 per cent of his body.

Several hours after Morrison's self-immolation his wife Ann issued a statement to newsmen through a family friend.

Family Statement
She said her husband, who was executive secretary of a Friends (Quaker) meeting house, or church, in Baltimore gave his life "to express his concern over the great loss of life and human suffering caused by the war in Viet Nam."

"He was protesting our government's deep military involvement in this war. He felt that all citizens must speak their true convictions about their government's actions."

McNamara — the principal target of the drastic protest — was in his office at the time Morrison met his fiery death. But a Pentagon spokesman said the defense secretary neither saw nor was aware of the incident.

Father Hunted In Knife Killing
DETROIT (UPI)—A first-degree murder warrant was expected to be issued today for Najib Kadri, 22, in connection with the fatal stabbing of a baby sitter Monday.

Police were broadening a search for the former Brazilian who was born in Lebanon after they found evidence Tuesday possibly linking him to the crime.

Kadri is the father of the child with which Julie Pasanen, 18, was sitting when she was attacked with a butcher-knife. Police said her body was stuffed into a bathroom of the Kadri apartment on the city's West Side and 18-month-old Michelle Kadri placed in the room with the body.

The suspect was separated from the child's mother, Eileen, about a week before the slaying took place, and had been working in the suburb of Dearborn as a busboy.

Police said he left his job at the motel about two hours before the slaying took place and has not been seen since.

Woman Elected As Vice Mayor For Kalamazoo
KALAMAZOO (UPI)—Dr. Raymond L. Hightower was re-elected to a fifth term as mayor in Tuesday's municipal election. Margaret Machin, a newcomer, was named vice mayor when she polled the second highest number of votes.

Mrs. Machin takes the place of Lee Stryker, a two-term city commissioner, who did not seek reelection. Five other commission incumbents were reelected.

Soviets Send Up Huge Satellite

MOSCOW (UPI)—Another huge Russian satellite orbited earth today on what may be a trail-blazing mission for establishment of a permanent manned space station.

The unmanned shot, named Proton 2, weighed almost 27,000 pounds, tying its predecessor, Proton 1, for the orbital heavyweight record.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Proton 2 was launched Tuesday with "a powerful carrier rocket." The launch vehicle was believed similar to the "new booster" which orbited Proton 1 last July 16.

There was speculation that other rockets of the same type are being used by the Soviets in their current test program in the Pacific. Two separate programs are being carried out in the Soviet's Pacific test range.

The Russians are expected to use these powerful rockets, which they claim can develop more than 60 million horsepower, to launch multi-manned spaceships and space stations.

In Washington, U.S. officials said the launch of a second Proton space craft seems to be another rehearsal for an ambitious attempt to eventually ferry crew members from earth to a roomy space station awaiting them in orbit.

Trio Will Urge McNamara To Run For Governor
DETROIT (UPI)—A group of three Michigan Democrats plan to make another try at convincing Defense Secretary Robert McNamara he should run for governor next year.

The first notice of an appeal to McNamara came in a letter from State Sen. Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac, to McNamara last week urging the former Ford Motor Co. president to oppose Gov. George Romney who twice has beaten Democratic gubernatorial candidates.

However, McNamara replied, "I see no possibility of returning to Michigan to run for governor." He did say he would meet with the Michigan Democrats when they come to Washington.

The three Democrats include O'Brien, William B. Elmer, a suburban Grosse Pointe attorney and unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1954, and Elmer's wife, who has been active in precinct politics.

Chicago Area Gasoline-Fuel Strike Broken

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Standard Oil Division of American Oil Co. said today it had reached agreement with the Teamsters Union on a new contract — the first break in a strike which has cut off deliveries of gasoline and fuel to the Chicago area.

Eight other major oil companies and about 100 independents continued to negotiate with the union in an effort to end the strike which since Monday has caused a mild crisis for motorists from Lake County, Ind., to Illinois' northern border with Wisconsin.

It was learned that 10 independent oil companies also agreed to terms of the Standard Oil contract which covers deliveries for 20-25 per cent of the area.

Chief Teamster negotiator Louis M. Peick, said deliveries for the firms that signed the contract would resume later today to the six county area.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed pending a vote by the union membership.

About 3,500 drivers went on strike at 12:01 a.m. Monday in a dispute over loading and unloading their trucks. The drivers refused to perform those functions, which had previously been done by other workers.

Other union demands include a 25-cent hourly wage increase over the next two years, revised vacation schedules, and a boost in insurance and pension payments.

Mapai Party Wins In Israel

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—A definite voting trend compiled by computers today gave Premier Levi Eshkol's ruling Mapai party a resounding victory over former Premier David Ben-Gurion's RAFAI party in the Israeli Parliamentary elections.

The tabulation, with returns from 901 of 3,095 polling booths representing 201,935 votes, gave the Mapai party 41 of the 120 seats in the country's sixth Knesset (Parliament).

The same tabulation indicated the RAFAI party would get nine seats, three less than originally forecast.

Jerusalem Radio said the computer system also allotted 33 seats to the right-wing Bahal party, 15 seats to the religious parties, 8 to the left-wing Mapam, 6 to the independent liberals, 4 to the Arabs, 3 to the Communists and 1 seat to the left-wing New Force party.

Democrats Bemoan Edict To Scrap Apportionment

LANSING (UPI)—For Michigan Republicans, Tuesday's Supreme Court decision to scrap current legislative districting was like getting a bid to the Rose Bowl after a season at the bottom of the league.

For Democrats, on the top for exactly one year, it was the reverse.

The court's 5-3 decision to toss out straight "one man, one vote" apportionment and its subsequent order to the Apportionment Commission to draw new districts by Jan. 1 was met with jubilation in GOP circles.

Democrats, on the other hand, moaned quietly over the record and issued cautious public statements to the effect that they would comment after they had time to study the six separate opinions.

Express Delight
"Naturally I'm delighted and accept with appreciation the fact that the court got rid of the present plan which I think was unfair," said former Republican Gov. Wilbur M. Bruckner, co-chairman of the Apportionment Commission.

The court sent the current plan, drawn along strict population lines by Democrats, back to the commission to be drawn in conformance with several antigerrymandering standards set out in the State Constitution.

"There is no such thing as computer equality in voting," Bruckner said. "Using the precinct and township lines as the basic building blocks is the way to accomplish redistricting."

The current plan swept Democrats to almost two-thirds majorities in both houses last year after 30 years as the minority party in Michigan. A group of 33 petitioners charged before the court that the plan was deliberately drawn to insure top-heavy Democratic majorities.

Milliken Pleased
"I am pleased that the Michigan Supreme Court has seen fit to undertake a final decision in this most important matter," Acting Gov. William G. Milliken said. "It is absolutely essential that all the people of Michigan receive fair and proper representation in both the House and Senate."

Milliken said his office and members of Gov. George Romney's executive staff are giving the opinions an intensive review.

Richard Austin, the Democratic co-chairman of the commission, said he didn't have "any views" on the court's decision. "I knew the court had taken this matter under consideration," he said, "but I didn't have any inkling this would be their decision."

"I don't think we (the Commission) should get involved until we have read the decision and order."

Study Orders
A. Robert Kleiner of Grand Rapids, coauthor with Austin of the scrapped plan, also said he wanted to study the decision before deciding what to do.

"Since Michigan has been distracted closer to 'one man, one vote' than any other state in the nation, I want to see why the court returned the case to the commission," he said. "I also want to see if the majority of the court set any standards for us to follow."

The court's decision was a major victory for Republicans, who have complained bitterly about what they claimed was Democratic gerrymandering of the Legislature.

"There is no doubt but that the Democrats who rammed the Austin-Kleiner plan down the throats of Michigan citizens clearly put partisan politics above the best interests of the people," said GOP State chairman Elly M. Peterson.

"The Democrat tactics paid off in last year's election, but I am sure that under a more reasonable apportionment, 1966 will be a different story."

Big Jets Hit N. Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI)—High-flying U.S. Air Force B52 bombers blasted a Communist stronghold near Saigon today while other American pilots reported destroying a vital highway bridge in North Viet Nam.

The new B52 attack, 58th of the war for the big jets, was directed at a suspected guerrilla troop areas in the so-called "Iron Triangle." 25 miles northwest of Saigon. It has been a frequent target of American bombs.

Eye Witness
UPI correspondent Elizabeth Halstead, who witnessed the raid from an observation plane, reported that more than 12 B52s, flying in groups of three, unloaded tons of explosives over the area.

At least 10 structures were destroyed, and witnesses saw one body on the ground. Observation planes drew some ground fire after the massive saturation bombing.

American pilots aboard F105 Thunderchiefs flew the mission against the North Vietnamese bridge Tuesday, dumping 3,000-pound bombs on the large concrete structure 115 miles southwest of Hanoi, the Communist capital.

Bridge Destroyed
A 20-foot section of the bridge plunged into the river below. An American military spokesman confirmed today that a U.S. Navy jet was shot down Monday over North Viet Nam, but the injured pilot was rescued by helicopter crews when he parachuted and landed in a grove of heavy trees.

School Bus Stops In Post Office
MOSHERVILLE (UPI)—Betty Jean Hamrick's school bus ended up inside the local post office Tuesday.

Police said Mrs. Hamrick, 39, was driving east when her bus was hit head-on by a car driven by Claude C. Chamberlain, 59, Mosherville. The bus went out of control, hit two parked cars and then slammed through the front window of the combination general store-post office.

Mrs. Hamrick and her four children, the only ones on the bus, were treated for minor injuries as was Chamberlain.

Community And School Program Study Advised

Three Escanaba men were among teams and individuals from more than 85 Michigan communities who were informed of the goals of the community-school program at the 10th annual Community Education Workshop that closed in Flint on Oct. 29.

Obituary

MRS. HARRIET S. CORNELL

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriett S. Cornell were held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Washington Island, with Rev. Chester C. Merenhausen officiating. Pallbearers were Harold Goodman Sr., Harold Goodman Jr., Kirby Cornell, Clifford Young, Leon Shellswick and K. Ellefson. Burial was in Washington Island Cemetery.

CLINTON "TONY" CASS

Funeral services for Clinton "Tony" Cass were held at 9 a. m. this morning at St. Thomas Church with the Rev. Leno Zadra officiating. Pallbearers were Al Kidd, William E. Eis, Harold VanEffen, Don Feller, Wendell Green and Ed Gravelle. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

They are Escanaba Mayor George Rusch, Dr. Alfred Gossan of the Recreation Commission, and Luther M. Barrett, superintendent of the Area Public Schools.

Meeting Monday night, the three reported their "general conclusions" after attending the workshop.

1—Many elements of the Flint Community School program already exist in Escanaba, namely an adult education program and the recreation programs at the Webster and Lemmer Schools.

2—Many other elements of the Flint program can well be adapted to the Escanaba community.

3—It would seem advisable for the Escanaba community to look more closely at an expanded community school program, to make better use of the school and city facilities for the benefit of the people of the area.

The men said they will make a more comprehensive report with specific recommendations and will present it to the City Council and the Area Board of Education.

At Flint resource people answered specific questions pertaining to the Mott Program, and an exchange of ideas showed how the community school philosophy can be implemented by other school districts.

Dr. Howard McClusky, professor of education, University of Michigan, gave a luncheon address.

Flint's community school program was initiated as a recreation program in 1935. Throughout the years it has grown to include an adult education program that enrolls approximately 70,000 people in more than 1,200 classes annually, a Big Brother program composed of nearly 1,000 Big Brothers for an equal number of little brothers, experimental curricula for the potential dropout and for the inner city child, the Stepping Stone program for girls, Mott Camp for boys, and the C. S. Mott Foundation Children's Health Center for children of "medically indigent" parents.

Last year alone 12,000 visitors from around the world visited Flint to view the community school program which touches all segments of the city's educational, social, recreational, and cultural life.

All activities will be conducted under the direction and supervision of Erwood Slade and Darrel Bengry, members of the staff of the local school system.

The Center will be open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 through the winter and spring months but will be closed for Thanksgiving and the Christmas holidays.

The following games and exercises will be included as part of the program of recreational activities offered to the youngsters of the north side of our city: basketball, volleyball, dancing, weight-lifting, table tennis, tumbling and bumper pool.

The facility has been in operation for six years and has been effective in meeting the social needs of many boys and girls who find it inconvenient to attend Club 314. Membership cards will not be issued this Thursday night but will be available from the adult leaders next week. The young people of the area are urged to become familiar with the rules of conduct listed on the back of the membership cards. There is no charge for enrollment.

Voters Say 'Yes':

Vote To Keep $1 Million, Raise Officer Pensions

About 30 per cent of Escanaba's 7,725 registered voters turned out on Tuesday to approve two propositions that had been endorsed by the City Council.

Proposition No. 1, to retain $1,000,000 the city received from the sale of the gas utility, invest it and use only the earnings for capital improvements annually, carried substantially by 615 votes.

The totals on the proposition were 1,968 "yes" to 354 "no" votes.

Proposition No. 2 — to come under a state pension act that would increase benefits to Escanaba policemen and firemen — squeaked through by 43 votes. This proposal received 1,179 "yes" votes and 1,136 "no" votes.

Use Only Interest
The City Council decided the date for the special election and had early indicated its interest in wanting voters to approve keeping the $1,000,000 invested and using only the estimated $42,000 annual interest for capital improvements.

There have been statements by the Councilmen that the returns to the community by keeping the fund intact will be considerably increased with the years. The earnings on the capital will provide city funds that can be matched with state and federal grants to increase the amount annually available for capital improvement.

Under state law the capital fund may be invested only in certain securities and none of the fund — neither capital or earnings — may be expended by the Council for other than capital improvements. It cannot be used to finance city operations costs.

Will Cost More
The Council has indicated that it is its intention to come to the voters in the future for an advisory vote in the event there is any contemplated use of the capital fund. Presumably, this would be a question of selecting a municipal improvement project to be financed by other than fund earnings.

Questions concerning the wisdom of keeping public funds invested, rather than expending them for immediate public improvements, were raised.

Has Surgery

Mayor George Ruch is in "good" condition at St. Francis Hospital today where he is recovering from an emergency appendectomy. The mayor voted at the Court House precinct about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and at 4 o'clock entered the hospital for surgery. His room is No. 359.

The majority of the voters, however, went for the theory that $1 million in the hand is worth more than that when invested.

On the question of bringing policemen and firemen under Act No. 345 of the Public Acts of 1937, as amended, there was considerably more public discussion prior to the election. The Councilmen individually took a stand favoring the more liberal pension act.

With the approval by the voters, the City of Escanaba will come under the act as of July 1, 1966 — the beginning of the city's next fiscal year.

Basically, Act 345 will give firemen and policemen and their dependents additional benefits, and it will permit (but not require) the officers to retire at age 55 rather than at age 60 as at present.

The additional cost to the city in bringing policemen and firemen under Act 345 has been estimated at $22,000 annually.

Other city employees may be interested in similarly generous pension and retirement provisions. City officials have estimated that "equal" pension and retirement consideration for the other city employees would cost the city about $78,000 total.

Voters in all seven city precincts approved the proposal to keep the $1 million intact; while a majority "no" vote on the pension act was registered in Precinct 1 (the Court House polling place); Precinct 3 (Community College East Hall); and Precinct 6 — the Lemmer School.

The vote by precincts:

In Service

First Lt. James W. Davis, attending U. S. Air Force Pilot Training School at Enid, Okla., received a medal with citation for his meritorious service while at Sawyer Air Force Base from May 1963 to July 1965. He was cited for his exceptional airmanship, initiative and devotion to duty. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Davis of Manchester, N. H., and his wife is the former Barbara Neumeier, daughter of Charles Neumeier of Escanaba and Mrs. Robert Keast of Lansing.

Gould City Girl Injured In Crash

Sharon Brown, 20, of Gould City, who was injured in a traffic accident at 11:40 a. m., Tuesday, will be transferred to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital at Manistique today for further examination, according to officials at St. Francis Hospital.

Miss Brown suffered a blow on the head in the crash. Her condition was termed as "good."

State Police of the Gladstone Post said the accident happened on U. S. 41 about 200 yards north of U. S. 2 in Rapid River. Troopers said she apparently fainted at the wheel of her car and lost control, striking a parked pickup truck owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Rte. 2, Rapid River. Miss Brown was ticketed for driving left of center.

Briefly Told

The Morning Star Lodge will meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Odd Fellows Hall.

Three Escanaba boys, all 13 years old, have admitted to Escanaba police that they were responsible for tossing objects into Highway U. S. 2-41 at the C&NW overpass last Friday night. Police said the boys have been referred to juvenile court authorities. The windshield of one car was shattered and the floor of another was punctured by an iron rod as a result of the dangerous pranks.

Arnold T. Williams, U. S. Social Security Administration, will address the Central U. P. Life Underwriters at the Sherman Hotel on Friday, Nov. 5, at noon. Members are expected to be present and underwriters not members are invited to attend. The many changes in Social Security benefits and Medicare will make the meeting important for all underwriters.

Visual Aids Use Explained

Vernon Ihlenfeldt, who heads the audio-visual department of the Escanaba Area Public Schools and is supervisor of the Adult Education program in the community, spoke to the Rotary Club at its meeting at the House of Ludington Tuesday noon.

Orville Peterson, assistant superintendent of the Area Schools and chairman of the Rotary Club's program committee, introduced the speaker. The meeting was conducted by Rotary Vice President Isadore Stein.

The use of an overhead projector and visual aids to increase the effectiveness of teachers was demonstrated by Ihlenfeldt. He had presented a somewhat similar demonstration at one of the section meetings of the MEA conference in Iron Mountain recently.

"There is more to teach in less time and there is the need to use visualization in addition to speech," he said. He said that studies reveal learning is accomplished 1% through taste, 1 1/2% through touch, 3 1/2% through smell and 11% through sight.

Projectors and other equipment of the audio-visual department are available on loan for community service projects.

The Rotary Club welcomed the Rev. Roger L. Patrow, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, into membership.

COMMEMORATIVE COIN
The first U. S. commemorative coin was a half-dollar circulated at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago, 1892-93. The coin bore the head of Columbus on the obverse and the Santa Maria above the two hemispheres on the reverse.

Moliere was the pen name used by Jean Baptiste Poquelin.

Coach Is Honored

Charles Hedgecock has been honored by Northern Michigan University for his service there. The university has named its field house for him.

The honor is deeply deserved and there'll be applause for Northern's action echoing all across the Upper Peninsula, for this fine gentleman who has given his life to the teaching of body fitness and athletics and fair play to our young men.

Hedge taught and coached football at Menominee as a young man. He carried on the tradition of strong football teams there and considerably expanded it, giving the legend of Menominee's invincibility on the gridiron considerably more luster. After he'd gone an able young fellow named Tom Johnson took on the coaching duties at Marinette and gave its schol the edge in the intercity series.

There were charges that Tom did more of his recruiting on the docks and in the sawmills than in the school gym, but that may have been only Menominee's grumbling about being beaten. The times were lusty and there was usually an interstate clash on the bridge between the two towns before the big game, with a few luckless fans thrown into the river.

Hedge probably didn't introduce the paddle into coaching, but he gave it more use than a canoe coach, whacking linemen on the rump to get them to charge in preparation for the defeat of Escanaba, Calumet, Iron Mountain or some other school from a town which took football more casually. Menominee would rather have beaten Marinette on Thanksgiving Day than win the Civil War.

Hedge made it possible for the town to ring the school bell pretty regularly on Turkey Day. When the school got a gym he became the physical education director and the basketball coach in earnest. Basketball in those days was a sort of after-season football, played with main strength and awkwardness. A little man had a chance then if he could shoot baskets from mid-floor. There was more scrimmage than teamwork and floorburns were more common than head colds.

Charles Hedgecock was such an outstanding athletic leader at Menominee that Northern Michigan College called him to Marquette. He was as great as advertised in the larger theater of physical education there.

Schooling has moved ahead so far from those days that it seems like something out of history and not the recent past. One of his phy ed students recalls: "Hedge would teach us how to teach students games. We'd sing songs like 'Catch a fox and put it in a box' and go through the exercises. When the girls were using the record player we were out of luck because there was a piano in the gym, but nobody could play it."

Charles Hedgecock's teaching will be remembered as long as any of "his boys" live, but there'll be a benefit that will go far beyond that. The man has been a great moral force in the Upper Peninsula. Many men of today who had him for a Boy Scout camp director or some other such rather casual leadership remember his forceful teaching and example in clean living with great vividness. It influenced their lives and they have passed it to their sons and daughters as one of their greatest bequests. Such persons deserve to have field houses named for them.

No Tomorrow

Few people have ever seen a blue whale, except in pictures. It is extremely likely that no one ever will again, including those who hunt them for their valuable oil, meat and numerous other products.

The 100-foot blue whale, the largest animal known to have existed, has been virtually exterminated, the victim of illogical rapacity of men.

Even now, when the blue whale is regarded as commercially extinct, as is the smaller humpback whale, the International Whaling Commission has found it impossible to get its 14 member nations to agree on a prohibition against hunting them to give what few remain a chance to reproduce themselves.

Because of the shortsighted greediness and cut-throat competition of four whaling countries — Russia, Japan, Norway and the Netherlands — the same fate threatens other species, such as the fin and sei whale. The industry continues to insist on catch quotas well above the levels which scientists warn are necessary to allow the whale populations to recover.

The quotas are also well above what the hunters have actually been able to take, despite an array of modern equipment like helicopters, sonar, explosive harpoons and factory ships that can process an entire whale in half an hour.

Each year the quotas are lowered; each year the catch fails to come up to it.

According to the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, "only the most drastic action can save the whaling industry from complete collapse within a few years."

On a sustained yield basis, this renewable natural resource would be worth some $20 million each year at current prices.

Yet here is an industry that is deliberately killing itself out of business, not to mention ridding the earth of some of the most magnificent creatures that have ever lived.

Statue Theft Still Mystery

DETROIT (UPI) —The nine-year-old mystery surrounding the theft of a statue insured for $10,000 continues despite the return of the art object to its "Torso of a Dancer" in the basement of the "Torso of a Dancer" was home of a suburban Gross created by suburban Royal Oak Pointe Woods industrialist, Carl sculptor Marshall Fredericks in 1936. It was displayed in an apartment building in Detroit

Acting on an anonymous tip, Porath and Piltz before Piltz police found the "Torso of a Dancer" in the basement of the "Torso of a Dancer" was home of a suburban Gross created by suburban Royal Oak Pointe Woods industrialist, Carl sculptor Marshall Fredericks in 1936. It was displayed in an apartment building in Detroit

Piltz Monday told police he had received the statue from owned by the late John B. his business partner, Gordon Piltz, who in turn told authorities he bought the statue from so, Ind., manager of the Terns "a well-dressed, heavy-set fellow" he met in a restaurant here nine years ago.

Porath said the man said he "was leaving town and had a statue he thought I might be returned to Terns."

"Carry On!"

Confused Aginners

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — We are developing in the United States a professional group of demonstrators and protesters.

The other day, when some of us were sitting and talking at a neighbor's house in Fairfax County, Va., a young man dropped by who lives in a nearby subdivision. He's a recent high school graduate.

He said he'd been up in New York to visit Greenwich Village. He was enthralled by the beatniks and became one. Then he'd dropped over to another part of the city to take part in a protest put on by a left-wing group demonstrating against U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

He had gone out a day or so later with a right wing group in a protest demonstration, urging that Earl Warren, chief justice of the Supreme Court, be impeached for his "liberal" views.

He had been looking for a civil rights protest to join in — so he could demonstrate in favor of Negro rights — but apparently none was scheduled for the time he was there.

He said he was "lost" before he went to New York. But he had "found" himself with these way-out groups.

One minute this young man was talking about the civil rights of Negroes. The next minute he was talking about how they should be "kept in their place."

His main objection to Viet Nam was that he might be drafted and sent there. He didn't know what was going on. But he didn't want to fight.

What he is, is a professional "aginner." He's against anything handy that comes along. He was against teachers when he was in high school. He is against the police when they object to his hot rodding. He's against anyone who objects to anything he does.

He is not one of the poor. He has his own car, furnished by his parents. He has ample spending money. He works when he wants to, doesn't work when he gets bored with the job.

Men and women like this are a growing group in the cities and suburbs. Many have little to do. They don't study up on the things they protest. They just go along.

They are confused. Men with axes to grind scoop them up to protest whatever the organizers want protested.

They're like the hired guns of the Old West, except that they work for kicks.

In a very real sense these people are more dangerous than Communists. There aren't many Communists in this country. They can be identified and watched. These confused "aginners" muddy the waters.

The confusion extends among members of the teachers who have backed teach-ins. Few of the experts on Asia, Viet Nam, communism or political science have appeared as sponsors of the teach-ins.

Studies indicate that of the 1,268 academicians listed as sponsors of the national teach-in in Washington, 172 were psychologists, 167 scientists and engineers, 107 sociologists, 133 professors of English or languages.

Of the 15,000 political scientists teaching in American universities, only 65 were listed as sponsors of the national teach-in committee. Most of these were reported as "completely unknown juniors."

In some underdeveloped countries, protests by groups no better informed have caused the fall of governments.

There is a danger, in any country, that credence will be given to marchers who capture publicity, rather than to the great majority who quietly go about their work, and to the thousands who, without fanfare, volunteer for military service.

Retire But Stay Active

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

A reader writes that her husband retired about a year ago and that since then he sleeps 12 to 14 hours a day. Although at the moment he is in robust health, he spends most of his waking hours eating and watching television. Her concern is that he is not getting enough exercise and that there has been no lessening of her own work load.

This woman has touched on a problem of growing importance. A man should not merely retire from something — he should retire to something of value to his community. This requires prior planning but in every community there is a need for many skills and services that could occupy the time and interest of men in every walk of life.

In some instances this may take the form of part-time paid employment and in others it may be voluntary service to a religious, civic or charitable organization.

I cannot predict how long this woman's husband will keep his robust health but I do know that many men who have been used to working have cracked up mentally and physically after a few months of purposeless living.

In preparation for retirement it is wise to develop habits of study. Anyone can build up an interest in some aspect

Lady Democrat To Quit Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate's only lady Democrat—Maurine Brown Neuberger of Oregon—is calling it quits. She will not run for re-election next year.

Mrs. Neuberger, one of only two women now serving in the Senate (Republican Margaret Chase Smith of Maine is the other), made it official Monday in a formal announcement of her intentions.

Part of the reason for stepping down, she said, is so she will have more time to work with her psychiatrist husband, Dr. Philip Solomon, in the field of prevention of mental illness. She and Solomon, who lives in Boston, were married last year.

But, though her decision was announced only Monday, the 38-year-old Mrs. Neuberger said it was really made four years ago when she underwent a serious cancer operation. Her husband and predecessor in the Senate seat she now holds, the late Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, D-Ore., also suffered from cancer, though that was not the cause of his death in 1960.

"I have made a wonderful recovery, my health is excellent. I have no trouble carrying the workload of the Senate and I am happy. But I decided four years ago that I wanted to travel," she said.

25 YEARS AGO

(Under a picture) Shades of George White, and Flo Ziefeld, look what we have here! What grace, what form, what feminine pulchritude. Don't tell us you guessed these ravishing beauties are none other than the Eskymo mighty men of the "disguised" in alluring feminine garb. But they are. The lovely rouged thing on the extreme right in the fetching grass costume is none other than Keith "Tiger" McDonald, ace center of the Eskymo squad. The alluring blonde in his embrace is Captain Donnie Pfotenbauer, another sweetheart in the Football Follies, star attraction of the annual Hallowe'en carnival at the high school, Tuesday night. In the plaid skirt and etching Bendel model hat is Don Aschinger. The blonde charmer in the fancy striped gown is Stue "Ga-Zung" Peterson and he's getting ready to punt.

If you ever catch these huskies in these clothes again, see an optometrist right away.

50 YEARS AGO

Members of Company No. 1 of the fire department responded to a false alarm that was turned in from Rose and Langley streets. The call was the third on successive evenings that proved to be false. Some mischievous boys evidently hoped to see the new automobile fire truck rush to the scene. Since the new truck hasn't been formally accepted by the city, the alarm makers must have been disappointed when the team and department members from No. 1 station responded.

A musical organization was launched at the home of Mrs. Clemo in the Knutson building on Ludington St. The members of the club will be confined to the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Ann Landers

Child's Beauty Genetic Matter

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice is usually excellent, but I think you could have done much better with your answer to the 16-year-old girl whose father said, "If you marry Clark you'll regret it because your children will be ugly and it's not fair to go give kids a handicap like that."

Haven't you noticed that some of the most beautiful people have ugly parents and some of the gorgeous couples produce physically unattractive children.

What a child is going to look like is the biggest gamble known to mankind. It all depends on how the chromosomes and genes combine. If the little rascals that carry the worst features of both parents get together, you'll have a real loser. On the other hand, if the best features of two average looking people collide you may get a raving beauty or a screamingly handsome boy.

So, why didn't you tell the girl to give her Dad THAT word, Ann? — GOT THE BEST FROM BOTH

Dear Got: Why? Because I didn't think of it. But YOU did and I thank you for providing my readers with a heck of a lot better answer than I gave them.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a middle-aged woman who was recently widowed. Several of my friends have been very generous about inviting me out to dinner and to their homes for cocktail parties.

My husband was never much of a drinker and neither am I. Now I find myself embarrassed when I am out for an evening and my friends order martinis, Manhattans, whiskey sours, and Bloody Marys because I don't know one drink from another. I usually order what the person next to me has.

I hate to admit it, Ann, but I am a poor drinker and two drinks make me feel dizzy and I get rather foolish. Will you please give me the names of some mild drinks that I can order with safety? Thank you — SOCIAL DRINKER

Dear Social: Soda pop, fruit punch, orangeade, iced tea, ginger ale, orange juice, tomato juice, pineapple juice, grapefruit juice and of course, there's always plain ice water.

The reason I prefer these beverages to the ones you named is because you can have as many as you want and you need never worry about feeling dizzy or acting foolish.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I received an engraved card announcing the marriage of a son of a close friend who lives in a nearby city.

The card arrived the day AFTER the wedding. We feel badly that we didn't get the card in time to attend. Don't you think if they had really wanted us to come they would have mailed the card earlier?

We had planned to buy a wedding gift, but now we don't know if we should. Are we wrong to feel this way? How would you feel? — GOT THE WORD LATE

Dear Late: You did not receive an invitation, you received an announcement. Some people appreciate a wedding announcement but since you are asking me how I would feel I will tell you that an announcement strikes me as a naked pitch for a present. Send a gift only if you feel like it.

Rather Switch Than Die

Pellets Save Escanaba Port

Escanaba tends to regard each ore season at its docks as an indication of what's cooking in Upper Michigan's mining industry. But it's not a good barometer.

There has been, for instance, an actual increase in ore moving over the Chicago & North Western Railway's dock in Escanaba even when the Upper Peninsula's iron mines were decreasing their production. This resulted from less ore going by way of Ashland, and, to a lesser degree, Marquette.

This year Escanaba will ship less ore than last year, although the U.P. ore industry is in a good condition, except for the Gogebic Range, which is down to one mine where it had 11 a few years ago.

Escanaba is holding its port volume for iron ore by the switch from natural ores to pellets. The Gogebic Range which has no pellet production, sent one million tons of ore through Escanaba in 1964, sent only 115,000 tons this year and is expected to send nothing next year. Its single mine sends most of its ore by rail to Granite City, Ill.

Port Is Saved
The building of pellet shipments, which is the hope of Escanaba for continuance as an ore shipping port in its second century is traced by Lee McMillan, dock agent of the Chicago & North Western Railway, from the first shipment of pellets here, 30,570 tons, in 1957. The pellet ore that year was only one half of one per cent of the total movement. In 1958 the port moved no pellets.

In 1959 pellets constituted 2 per cent of Escanaba shipments, in 1960 one half of one per cent, in 1961 and '62 nothing. In 1963 heavy movement of pellets began. That year pellets were 19 per cent of the total, in 1964 they were 34 per cent and this year so far they constitute 50 per cent and McMillan expects the season total to be about 52 per cent. Next year, he forecasts, pellets will be at least 57 per cent of all traffic.

Revolutionary Change

The most recent authoritative comment on Upper Michigan iron mining was by H. S. Harrison, president of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., to the American Mining Congress in Las Vegas in October.

The great changes in the iron mining industry have been from domestic business to global business, from underground mines to open pit mines, and from natural ores to pelletized, refined ore.

The iron industry has changed more in the past 10 years than in the previous 50, said Harrison.

First pellet iron shipment was in 1956 and now pellet production is appearing on every continent. "If we had twice as many pellets we could sell them overnight," said Harrison, although there's a world glut of iron.

Pellets have changed the iron business. No longer can a mining company afford to build its own pellet plant; they inevitably lead to partnerships like those that Cleveland Cliffs has formed to share the costs and take the products of its mines at Humboldt, Republic and Palmer.

Not Final Answer

"But it would be a mistake to think that pellets are the final answer to the development of iron ore products," said Harrison. "People are working on semi-reduced and metallized pellets and direct reduction processes. The main thing yet to prove is economic feasibility. I think that metallized pellets or direct reduction will have a much stronger appeal to countries with high coke costs."

There has been speculation on this point for a century at least in Michigan's iron industry. The question: When will it become economically feasible to reduce the iron ore to iron at the mine instead of at steel mills on the lower lakes; to leave the silica and other waste materials at the mine and ship a more finished product to the mills than ore, or even pellets?

To understand the global nature of the iron ore industry and the hard competition it creates for the Lake Superior area iron ores, Harrison said "You have to realize that there are no tariffs or import quotas on iron ore in this country. Therefore discoveries any place in the world move freely here."

Seaway Competition

"There was a natural barrier, however, to transportation of imported ores to Midwest steel plants which accounted for almost 70 per cent of steel capacity in this country in 1957. The natural barrier was removed in 1959 with the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The Lake Superior District iron ore industry was no longer protected."

"Large foreign ships with low-paid crews bring in high grade foreign ore mined at very low labor costs."

Balancing this to some degree is modernization of transportation, with the railroads convinced that they can make more money hauling large tonages at lower rates than if they haul a little at high rates. "An inclination to lower some rail rates has appeared," says Harrison.

It has helped maintain the ore flow through Escanaba despite a decline in production.

"All rail-rates will be, I predict," said Harrison "an important factor in the iron ore industry in the next 15 years."

Pellets Are Future

They could increase the ore flow at Escanaba, by diverting it from Marquette, they could diminish it by moving ore directly from mines to lower lake steel mills in unit trains, or they could end the lake traffic by this method.

Of the overall future of the U.S. iron ore industry Harrison said, "In 1950 the U.S. produced more than 40 per cent of the world's ore. In 1964 it accounts for 15 per cent and in 1975 it will be less than 13 per cent. It is our prediction that the United States in 1975 will be producing 6 million tons less than in 1960 (6 million tons is about the annual movement over the Escanaba dock), although the actual iron in the iron ore will be about 15 per cent greater."

"Domestic iron ore companies, if they are going to maintain a growth status, must go to foreign operations, which, of course, is what most of them are doing."

"By 1975 more than three-quarters of U.S. ore production will be pellets. The only thing holding down pellet production in the U.S. is that demand for iron ore, which really gets back to the demand for steel, is not growing here at the same rate as the rest of the world."

"It is estimated that iron ore production will decline in the U.S. from 1950 to 1975, but that pellet growth will continue strong."

Test Approved In Detroit For Tube Cab Travel

DETROIT (UPI) — Common Council Monday approved a $3 million one-mile rapid transit system test which will cost the city nothing.

The project would be located on Woodward Avenue, Detroit's main street.

The city approval was needed for the federal government to supply two-thirds of the cost. Developers of the Teletran system said construction supplier companies will contribute the remaining money.

The Teletran system, a computer-controlled facility that would move passengers through tubes in private cabs, has never been tested.

Dear Heloise:
My seven-year-old daughter never remembered to brush her teeth until I made a list of things she should do before going to school.

I placed the list on the wall beside the door in her room. She checks the list each morning to see if she has done everything she should. Now, I never have to remind her.

Mrs. Roger Hughart

Can you, or any of your readers, please tell me how to clean my chopping block (board) to make it look nice? I have used mine so much that it has become stained and ugly.

Mrs. Francis Shierling

Anyone really know or had success? If so, be a pal and drop us a line as to how you did it.

Address your notes to Heloise, in care of this paper. We surely will appreciate it.

Heloise

County Service Costs More

Driveway Plow Fee $35

Delta County rural dwellers can have their driveways plowed by the Delta County Road Commission in the coming winter.

The uncertainty over the legality of the county's role in this service has been ended by special legislation of the Michigan Legislature permitting Upper Peninsula county road departments to plow private driveways. Thus the service is on a firm legal footing for the first time in Delta County after 30 years of such service.

But it will cost more than it has in the past because the legislation says the county can't subsidize the service. Persons who sign for county plowing must pay what it costs the county.

William Karas, county highway superintendent, said that the Delta County Road Commission has adopted a schedule of fees for plowing starting at $35 minimum and stepping up in $5 steps on a basis of experience with the needs of each driveway. Length is not the only factor, as open fields may drift badly where wooded areas present little difficulty, although longer.

The County Road Commission has sent out contracts to rural dwellers to be signed for the plow service. Last year the county plowed 335 driveways. When it started such plowing 30 years ago it plowed 300. The number got up to 1,100 at a peak and is very strongly influenced by the fee charged.

Karas said it costs the county $6.93 an hour for a large plow truck, and $1.33 for a plow, plus $2.50 for a driver, a total of $10.76 an hour. To these costs must be added other expenses including insurance, which will cost the county $1,500 more a year under expanded coverage to cover plowing liability and new needs.

It takes an average of 2 to 3 hours total time in a winter to keep a private driveway open. In other years the county broke even most years on plowing costs and fees, but had a deficit some years, never over $1,000, said Karas.

Delta County had 38 pieces of equipment, plow trucks, graders, scrapers, etc., which it uses in maintaining wheel traffic conditions on the county roads in winter. The cost of snow and ice removal can vary greatly with weather conditions.

The county is now stockpiling 3,000 cubic yards of sand, treated with a sack of chloride for every yard, at Escanaba, Rapid River and Garden for winter highway treatment. The sand is spread to reduce skidding and as an ice melting agent.

Trucks are also being equipped with plow mounts and the plows will go on with the first snowfalls in late November.

The Upper Michigan Tourist Association chose new officers at its annual meeting in Iron Mountain Oct. 29 and planned an active program of promotion of the Upper Peninsula's tourist and resort business.

Gene Carollo, Iron Mountain motel operator, was elected president to succeed Clyde Hecox of Marquette, head of Our Own Bakeries. Carollo, who has been vice president was succeeded by John T. Miller of Rapid River, operator of Jack's Restaurant.

Kenneth Dorman, Houghton, was re-elected secretary-manager, an office in which he has served since the reorganization of the old U. P. Development Bureau as the Upper Michigan Tourist Association in 1959.

James Smaby, vice president of the Commercial Bank of Iron Mountain, was elected treasurer to succeed James Braddock, of the Union National Bank of Marquette. The change coincides with the moving of the Tourist Association's offices from Marquette, where they have been located for 55 years, to the new building of the Dickinson County Chamber of Commerce in Iron Mountain.

Elected as directors in Region 2, embracing Schoolcraft, Delta and Menominee counties, for three year terms were hotel operators John Reindl, Menominee; Ray Schmidt, Manistique, Fred Costell, Escanaba and William Pfeffer, Gladstone.

Dorman said that a flexible budget of a minimum of $80,000 for promotion in the period Nov. 1 to June 30, with a hoped-for $100,000 expenditure, was adopted.

The Tourist Association said it would send representatives to 8 Midwest travel and outdoor shows this winter.

PTA Considers Role Of Parents In Conduct Code

Who is to blame for juvenile delinquency: youngsters or parents?

That question is currently under consideration by a committee of the Escanaba Area PTA counsel charged with the responsibility of formulating a "Code of Responsibility" for parents and youth.

Parental views on the subject were expressed Monday at a meeting at the School Administration building. Youth will get their say at a meeting scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 7, in the commons of the Area High School.

The idea, according to committee chairman Mrs. Jay C. Jennings of Soo Hill, is to crystallize ideas of both parents and youth into a guiding code.

Need Both Views

"Without the ideas of both youth and parents we would be defeating our purpose," she said.

The meeting in February is expected to draw representatives from all local church groups, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Club and Junior and Senior High School student councils.

The final code will be drafted by the PTA Committee after the meeting.

Members of the committee heard an explanation of Escanaba's new ordinance barring youths under 21 from taverns unless accompanied by a legal guardian and Mrs. Wayne Schmitt of the Ford River PTA discussed "Teenagers In Trouble," a report by Prof. and Mrs. Sheldon Glueck of the Harvard Law School.

"Life requires discipline," the reported stated, "Unless general restraints are built into the character of children you get social chaos."

"Can't Buy Love"

"Once there were chores around the house to make a child feel important," the report continued. "Today, the tendency is to hand everything to the adolescent on a platter. The things that count most in raising children do not depend so much on dollars and cents as on parents' affection. You do not show love through pampering or bribing a child with presents. Love is not something you can buy."

Prof. and Mrs. Glueck contended not enough is being done about preventing home-oriented causes of delinquency.

"Too much attention is being directed at the children and not enough at the family that made them delinquent," the report said. "It is parents who need re-education more than the child. Parents must be taught the importance of affection and discipline."

Next committee meeting will be held at 7:45 p.m., Monday, Jan. 3, at the School Administration building and Mrs. Jennings urged Catholic and Protestant churches and both public and parochial schools to send representatives.

Council Calls Regular And Special Sessions

The Escanaba City Council will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 4, in regular session and at 7:30 on Thursday, Nov. 11, in a special meeting, both at the City Hall.

The regular meeting agenda includes the opening of bids on fire hose; a report of the canvassing board on the special city election; and an evaluation of the city boards and commissions.

The special session on Thursday next week will be held at the Council's request to discuss the effect of a recently adopted ordinance controlling the presence of minors in places where alcoholic beverages are dispensed.

Representatives of law enforcement and the local liquor licensees have been notified of the meeting.

Bartenders at the last Council meeting asked that the ordinance be amended and returned to its more lenient original provisions.

Munroe Husbands

Unitarian To Speak Here At Sunday Meeting

Munroe Husbands, continental fellowship director for the Unitarian Universalist Association, will give a public address on "Who Are These Unitarians and Universalists?" at 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 7 in the Sherman Hotel. An open discussion period will follow.

"Religion and science can work side by side in harmony," Husbands states, "but only when both are dedicated to a continuous search for truth. Should science declare that it had all truth, 'known or to be known,' its progress would abruptly stop. Nor can religion remain static in a changing world."

"Unitarians and Universalists comprise a fellowship of seekers, frankly asserting that they do not have 'the answers,' yet welcoming all opinion and all help that will enable man better to understand himself and the envolving Universe. They are convinced that religious truth cannot be contrary to truth from any other source."

Husbands will trace briefly the history of the Unitarian Universalist denomination, explain why it has insisted that no creedal test or statement be made for membership, point out humanitarian movements that have been instigated by religious liberals, and describe the religious education program for children.

GLADSTONE Schools Extend Library Service To Townships

The Gladstone Board of Education voted unanimously to add the Masonville, Bay de Noc, and Ensign townships to the Gladstone Library service area at their regular meeting Monday evening at the James T. Jones School.

Action was taken at the request of citizens of the Rapid River area and the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation and will permit citizens of these townships to use the Library without charge. Library hours will be increased to include Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons as well as the usual weekly hours.

Athletic director Don Pfothauer appeared before the board to discuss the change in football schedules made necessary by the membership change in the Great Lakes Conference. Pfothauer explained that Gladstone will play all other members once during the season which will include games with Manistique, Newberry, Soo, Munising, Marquette, Ishpeming and Negaunee. This leaves only two non-conference games to be scheduled. He indicated Gwinn would take one and the other probably will be Stew-

Approval was also given to participate in the exchange teacher program for the coming year. One local teacher will exchange positions with another teacher of a foreign country.

Present heating boilers will be replaced since they are 42 years old and are now working to capacity. Boilers will be replaced by modern units when the Health and Physical Education Wing is added to the school.

At the request of the local chapter of the M. E. A., the M. E. A. will be recognized by the Board as the sole negotiating agent for the teacher-board problems.

A resolution was passed concerning the proper recognition of the recent bequest of the late R. J. Rains.

Fisherman Is Hard To Find

Fishing activity was at a standstill in the Escanaba district this past week, the Conservation Department reports.

Some activity on rainbows was reported in Johnson Lake in Marquette county, trolling with spoons.

In the Chatham-Munising area in Alger County, Rock River near the railroad bridge produced several 8-10 inch rainbows on worms with a few also taken below the dam and at the mouth. Trolling off the rocks of Laughing Fish Point produced a few steelheads on cowbells, night crawlers, and streamer flies.

Trolling off the mouth of Laughing Whitefish River and around Laughing Fish Point was good for lake trout, some going up to 8-10 pounds. Cowbells, small trout spoons were good baits. Northern pike and perch have hit well on Au-Train Lake on worms and live minnows, both still fishing and trolling.

Chuck Davey, chairman of the state board of Athletic control which governs professional athletics in Michigan, will be the speaker at the Manistique Rotary Club's football recognition dinner Monday night, Nov. 8. Davey is interested in exploring the possibility of reviving the amateur boxing program in the Upper Peninsula. Davey captured four National Collegiate boxing crowns as a Michigan State scrapper before embarking on a successful professional career.

Speaking of boxing, the world heavyweight championship bout between Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson, scheduled for Nov. 22 in Las Vegas, will be shown via closed circuit television at the Brown County Arena in Green Bay. A preliminary between heavyweights Babe Spencer of Portland, Oregon, and Amos Lincoln, both ranked among the top 10, will begin at 7:30 p.m. The Arena has a seating capacity of 2,690.

Manistique's Jim Malloch continues to be the most effective ground gainer for Coach Bill Lucier's Michigan Tech Huskies. The senior halfback has gained 178 yards in 30 carries for an average of 5.9 per trip. Enemy tacklers have managed to nail Malloch for only one loss this season and that was a short one-yard deficit. The Huskies will close out their 1965 campaign at Superior Saturday.

Halfback Jerry Rasner scored Stephenson's lone touchdown in a 7-7 tie with Norway, hitting paydirt on a five yard run midway in the final period of the game. Norway tied it on the following play when Jim Mroz took the Stephenson kickoff on his 15, faked a handoff to Mike Tomasko and went 85 yards to the Eagle end zone. Mroz also kicked the extra to match the earlier conversion by Stephenson's Bruce Weng. Stephenson outgained Norway 207 to 139 in total yardage from scrimmage.

Halfback Tom Johnson sparked Kingsford to its 35-0 Great Northern Conference victory over Iron Mountain, scoring touchdowns on a 5 yard run from scrimmage, a 29 yard pass and a 45 yard run with an intercepted aerial, in addition to leading all Flivver rushers with 93 yards in 13 carries. Chris Alberti gained 68 yards in 18 trips and scored one touchdown.

Marquette's rugged defense threw Menominee runners for a total loss of 23 yards as the Marins scored their 13-0 M&M victory. Menominee completed 10 of 22 passes for 195 yards to finish with a net scrimmage gain of 82 against 260 for the Marins. Fullback Jeff Zeratsky and halfback Jerry Peterson scored the Marquette touchdowns, both of which were set up by pass interceptions.

Statistics Lie In Pro Football

NEW YORK (UPI) — But the position of the New York Giants is probably the most surprising of all — in view of their statistics. In the American Football League, the statistics and standings tend to coincide but in the National League there is almost no correlation between position in the standings and statistical dominance.

Consider the case of the mighty Green Bay Packers, who lead the Western Division with a 6-1 record. The Packers rank 10th among all NFL clubs in total offense and sixth among the clubs in the Western Division in total defense. Green Bay ranks fifth overall and third in the Western Division.

By comparison, the Minnesota Vikings, who trail the Packers in the West, hold down the number three spot in total offense overall and rank second in the West. Defensively, the Vikings rank seventh in the league and fourth in the West. The situation in the East is similar. There the Cleveland Browns hold down the top spot with a 5-2 record but rank no better than sixth overall and third in the East in total offense. In total defense, the Browns rank ninth overall and fourth in the East.

Small College Grid Leader Increases Margin In Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — North Dakota State University, its offense recharged after two sputtering performances, today shifted into high gear and increased its first place lead over runnerup Maine in the weekly United Press International Board of Coaches ratings.

The all-winning Bisons, undefeated in eight games, broke scoring slump with a vengeance last weekend by annihilating South Dakota 66-8. North Dakota State had been the nation's highest scoring small college team when first endorsed by the UPI coaches as the No. 1 team three weeks ago but had scored only six and 14 points in narrowly winning its two subsequent games.

Bisons' Points

The offensive spurge earned the Bisons 315 points, high for the year, from the 35-man board and 19 first place votes in their finest showing of the year. Maine had been creeping closer to the leader in the last two weeks, but received 276 points to fall 17 points farther.

Maine, which already has finished the Yankee Conference championship, throttled Colby 42-14 for its seventh victory and received a like number of first place votes. Sixth-ranked Middle Tennessee State drew three ballots for No. 1 while fifth-ranked Long Beach State had two. Third-ranked Los Angeles State, the defending national champion, earned one, as did seventh-ranked Northern Illinois, Massachusetts and Eastern Washington.

The top four teams held their positions with Eastern Carolina tenaciously clinging to fourth, two points ahead of Long Beach State, which jumped from seventh to fifth. Middle Tennessee remained sixth but Northern Illinois and Sul Ross, both 7-0, each moved up one notch to seventh and eighth.

Ninth Tied

Weber State, which toppled Western (Colo.) State from the undefeated ranks 14-7 and its lofty fifth position, edged into

Cassius At Fight Site; Will 'Punish' Patterson

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The potentate of boxing, Muhammad Ali who doesn't answer to Cassius Clay, and his royal retinue were settled down today in their aptly named headquarters, the El Morocco.

A motel rather than a palace, the El Morocco is located directly across the highway from the Stardust Hotel. That's where Heavyweight Champion Clay will do his training for the Nov. 22 bout with challenger Floyd Patterson.

Business-like Manager Angelo Dundee arranged a program for Clay on his first day calling for the champion to take his roadwork early in the morning, take a look around this tourist center and then go into the ring at 1 p.m. for his first Las Vegas workout.

Patterson, who had taken Monday and Tuesday off, also prepared to resume his training later in the day at the Thunderbird Hotel, down the highway a few blocks.

Clay's Boast

Clay flew into Las Vegas Tuesday afternoon with his party of 14 persons after a stopover in Los Angeles where the champion in typical fashion told what he intended doing to Patterson when they get into the ring at the convention center later this month.

"I'm going to punish Patterson so completely he won't have any excuses," the champion said during the stopover on his flight from Miami, Fla. "I want to see him cut, bruised, his ribs caved in and then knocked out. I'm going to punish him for seven or eight rounds."

Clay was irritated over Patterson's attacks on his affiliation with the Black Muslims sect and the ex-champion's declaration that he intended winning to "bring the crown back to America." John Shabazz Muslim minister in Los Angeles, and several followers met Clay in Los Angeles.

"I don't know what he means," the champion said. "I'm an American. But he's a deaf, dumb and blind so-called Negro who needs a spanking."

Punish Patterson

"I plan to make him an example to the world. I'm going to punish him for the things he said about me in the magazines."

Clay, however, had kinder words for ex-champion Sonny Liston, whose title he lifted in Miami, declaring Liston was "the best fighter in the world besides me. He would knock out Patterson again if they met."

But Clay said Ernie Terrell, who defended his World Boxing Association (WBA) title successfully Monday night against George Chuvalo, had "no class."

"He couldn't knock out Chuvalo or Eddie Machen. I could beat him and five like him. I'm the greatest fighter in the world."

Clay was re-instated by the WBA on the promise if he defeated Patterson he would meet the winner of the Terrell-Chuvalo bout. But the talkative Clay said, "I'm not bound by the WBA. I'm the champion of the world. I'm not meeting nothing of theirs if I don't want to. I don't have to ask them anything."

Included in Clay's party were three sparring partners headed by his brother Rudy who prefers to be called Rahaman Ali, Cody Jones and Jimmy Ellis.

Blades Dulled By Quebec Six

By United Press International

The Los Angeles Blades are probably glad they don't meet the Quebec Aces very often. The Blades of the Western Hockey League met the American Hockey League Aces Tuesday night and the Quebec team, led by Leon Rochefort's two goals and one assist, won 9-1. The Aces had 42 shots to only 23 for Los Angeles.

The Aces jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first period, led 6-1 after two and scored three more in the last stanza. Quebec leads the AHL's Eastern Division with 15 points on seven victories, one loss and one tie. No other AHL teams were scheduled.

Sunday Should Tell True Story Of Packers, Lions

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—You're a red-hot pro football fan. You've been told the team leading the National Football League at the season's halfway point still has something to prove.

Do you believe it? Of course not.

But you know it's true if you've been following the Green Bay Packers closely.

The Packers, who take on the resurging Detroit Lions Sunday at Lambeau Field, won their first six games this year before being trounced 31-10 at Chicago last Sunday. The fans, however, were beginning to believe the wins were accomplished with mirrors.

In four of the seven games, the Packers were outgained decisively. Yet the only loss was that one to the Bears.

As a team, the Packers have been around the middle of the NFL's statistical standings all season—both offensively and defensively. And, individual stars Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, used to being among the league's leading runners and scorers, are far down in both categories this year.

Mirrors? Coach Vince Lombardi doesn't think so. Until last Sunday's game he was working each week on a new way to win ball games.

Against Pittsburgh in the opener and Detroit at the Lions' home field, it was sparkling second-half rallies that brought victory. Intercepted passes keyed the win over the Steelers and Bart Starr took over with a sensational third quarter to beat the Lions.

Against the Bears the first time the two teams played, the Packers looked like a powerhouse in the first half, but collapsed almost completely in the final 30 minutes and hung on for a 23-14 win.

Against the Colts and Cowboys, the Packers used an opportunistic defense to win.

Lombardi, however, is still looking for that first full four quarters of football, something that's been a long time coming. He felt his team came close in a victory over San Francisco, but even that one didn't satisfy one of football's most demanding taskmasters.

Sunday's game is expected to answer the question, Which half of the first Packers-Lions game told the true story?

Detroit ran roughshod over the Packers in the first half and piled up a 21-3 lead. But the Packers, in the second half, reversed the trend as Starr hit with amazing regularity to lead the team to a 31-21 victory.

Lombardi was not sure if any players would be lost through injury for the Lions game. Starr and linebacker Ray Nitschke appeared to be the most serious casualties, but both returned to action against the Bears after suffering early injuries.

Tight end Marv Fleming saw no action against Chicago because of a bruised ankle and was replaced by Bill Anderson. Fleming, however, is expected to be able to return to action against Detroit.

HAND AND FOOT — At right, the fine hand of Jim Coleclough of the Boston Patriots brings down Jim Warren, 48, of the San Diego Chargers. Warren had just intercepted a pass intended for Coleclough. At left, high-flying halfback Wendell Hayes, 29, of the Denver Broncos, lands a solid kick on the jaw of Freddy Glick, 27, of the Houston Oilers back tries to stop him.

Hillsdale Wins Distance Event

Hillsdale (UPI)—Hillsdale College Tuesday hosted the state National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) cross country meet and won the event.

Hillsdale was low with 35 points as it moved out Central Michigan with 36, winning the event by placing runners in 3rd, 5th, 6th, 10th and 11th spots.

First place in the race went to Jerry Smith of Spring Arbor who set a course record of 19:56, bettering the old mark of 19:51 set by Bill Grebe of Central Michigan in 1963.

The second place runner was Bob Dean of Central and Doug Hansen of Hillsdale was third. Dean trailed Smith by four seconds at the end.

Central Michigan was the defending champion.

Howard Named Comeback Player In American League

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Howard, who ended his platooning days when the Los Angeles Dodgers traded him to the Washington Senators, today was named American League Comeback Player of the Year by the United Press International board of experts.

Howard led the Senators in hitting (.289), hits (149), doubles (22), home runs (21) and runs batted in (84). He ignored the pain of an injured elbow to play in 149 games.

"There were three big differences last season," according to the 6-foot-7 former Ohio

State star. "I reported in better physical condition, my mental attitude was better, and most important, I had an opportunity to play regularly."

More Pressure

"After five and a half years of being platoonated with the Dodgers, I didn't realize until I got to the Senators how really tough it is to be a platooned ball player," he explained. "True, they play only against the pitchers they are supposed to hit, but there is more pressure on them to deliver."

Washington Manager Gil Hodges praised his left-fielder when told of the award.

"Frank played most of the year with that bad elbow," Hodges said. "I know he played a lot of times when he shouldn't have because of the pain. He certainly deserves the honor."

Howard credited Hodges with helping his outlook.

"Gil told me when I joined the team that I was his leftfielder and that I would play every day," Howard said. "That made all the difference in the world."

Doctors performed surgery on Howard Oct. 5 to remove two bone chips from his right elbow. Only Tuesday he began to test it for the first time.

Winter Workout

"Apparently the operation was a complete success," he said, adding that he would work the elbow back into shape by playing basketball and handball this winter.

"We're a young ball club and I think we'll surprise a lot of people," the slugger said. "Some of our veterans have off-years last season and figure to come back," he said. "I'll be very disappointed if we don't keep climbing in the standings."

Howard was given eight votes from the 24 writers in the UPI board representing each of the major league teams plus four UPI baseball writers.

Second was Earl Batley of the American League champion Minnesota Twins with four votes. Rocky Colavito of the Cleveland Indians received three votes for third place.

The Twins' Al Worthington received two votes and two of his teammates, Jim Grant and Zoilo Versalles, got one each. Others receiving one vote were Albie Pearson of the California Angels, Pete Richert of the Senators, Norm Cash of the Detroit Tigers and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox.

The last vote went to Leroy "Satchel" Paige, who pitched three innings for the Kansas City Athletics last season. The writer who voted for old Satch noted on his ballot:

"Can you think of any player who has come from farther back than Satch?"

Speed King Eyes Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)—Speed king Craig Breedlove vowed today to beat off the challenge of daring Art Arfons by pushing his jet-powered racer past the magic 600 mile per hour barrier.

Breedlove regained the elusive world land speed record Tuesday in two speed-filled runs over western Utah's salt flats in which he averaged 555 miles per hour — 19 miles per hour better than Arfons' previous record of 536 M.P.H.

The 28-year-old Los Angeles speedster ended a series of frustrations and personal disappointments by recapturing the title he held on three previous occasions.

Rivalry Continues

But Breedlove doesn't plan to rest on his laurels. Aware that Arfons was returning to Bonneville, Breedlove said he would shoot for the 600 mile per hour figure — if necessary.

That meant the handsome southern Californian wouldn't try to improve his mark unless Arfons surpasses it.

Whether Breedlove and Arfons renew their rivalry for the title of fastest man on wheels depended on the condition of the salt and the possibility of storms.

Breedlove said some sections of the speedway "were like washboards and getting worse every day." Such conditions are normal for this time of year and sudden rain or snow would end the racing season.

Arfons and his racer "Green Monster" left Las Vegas, Nev., upon hearing that Breedlove had snatched the record away.

Showing Car

The 39-year-old Akron, Ohio, driver was in the Nevada gambling and resort city displaying his car at a hotel.

The Ohioan has the course reserved beginning this weekend. Breedlove would return two weeks later — if necessary — weather permitting.

Breedlove's $200,000 "Spirit of America" zoomed straight down the white speedway in two near-perfect runs. His official speeds were 555.127 M.P.H. for the mile and 555.483 for the kilometer. His fastest time during the required two runs was 566.394.

Unlike the runs of two weeks ago when the car's front wheels left the ground and it veered off course, the record runs were made with a minimum of difficulty.

By United Press International.

Northwestern and Minnesota, set to collide Saturday in the land of sky blue waters, both were rocked by injuries to key players Tuesday.

Head coach Alex Agase learned that junior end Mike Flora will be lost to the Wildcats for the rest of the season because of a shoulder separation suffered in practice Monday.

Defensive right halfback Tommy Sakal will be missing from the Gopher lineup Saturday because of two broken fingers discovered Monday. Sakal was Minnesota's leading pass interceptor, with three thefts for 80 yards.

Agase said he will attempt to bolster his injury-riddled line by using tackles Ken Ramsey and Jim Burns and end Cas Banaszek on both offense and defense against the Gophers.

Minnesota mentor Murray Warmath said junior Dick Seitz will replace Sakal Saturday.

Top-ranked Michigan State worked on pass defense to prepare for dangerous Gary Snook of Iowa. The Spartans also drilled on punting and kickoffs. The Hawkeyes polished their offense game at Iowa City.

Indiana's selective units concentrated their practice on stopping Ohio State fullback Tom Barrington. Coach John Pont said fullbacks "have made a lot of trouble for us this season and there is no doubt that Barrington is one of the best."

The Wisconsin Badgers held their second consecutive secret practice in preparation for the Purdue Boilermakers. Coach Milt Bruhn moved sophomore Dick Schumitsch to the starting fullback slot, replacing the injured Tom Jankowski.

The Boilermakers ran through a rugged 45-minute scrimmage at West Lafayette, Ind. Coach Jack Mollenkoph concentrated the workout on the Purdue running game.

Dick Arrington of Notre Dame, a two-way star with the Irish, was awarded the game ball for his play in the Notre Dame win over Navy last Saturday. Coach Ara Parseghian also presented awards to halfback Nick Eddy, center George Goedecke, tackles Bob Meeker and Pete Duranko, and halfback Tom Longo.

Extension Is Changing

More Neighbors Coming

EAST LANSING — Every Michigan farm family is likely to have one less farmer neighbor in 1980.

But the farm family will be far from isolated. Thousands of Michigan families will move into rural areas, part of an anticipated 10,500,000 population—but only 3 per cent will be farmers.

Michigan State University scientists making predictions for 15 years ahead in "Project '80," estimate the state will have about 55,000 farm operators—less than half the number in 1960.

The projections were made at the fall faculty workshop of the College of Agriculture. Taking part were all divisions of the college's research, teaching and extension staff.

They heard predictions of dramatic developments in agriculture: beef factories, plants that use less water, controlled conditions to combat weather, automated milking, combines that float on a cushion of air over grain fields and mechanization that can mean increased food production with half the labor force of 1965.

More people will live in high-rise apartments, getting their meals at a common cafeteria with the home kitchen obsolete. For those who prefer "home cooking," a computer card inserted into a home television may order from a selection of 10,000 items from giant supermarkets with delivery in minutes to the door.

Project '80, a futuristic look at Michigan's rural potential is nearing the final stages of its two-year study.

Electronic cash registers may transmit sales of stock to automated warehouses where orders will be automatically assembled for shipment to out-state distribution points. Many foods will come in packages made possible by a myriad of new processing techniques.

Looking ahead, the Cooperative Extension Service, recently committed to work with commercial farmers and rural families, sees many new developments on the horizon. Farmers will be managers of big businesses, the average commercial farm will have an investment of more than $130,000. Sales may average over $25,000 per year.

MSU's Dean of Agriculture

bright future for extension work and declared that by 1980, the College of Agriculture would add a fourth dimension, international education, to the traditional functions of teaching, research and extension work.

N. P. Ralston, director of MSU's Cooperative Extension Service, revealed details on the recently announced statewide reorganization, which he described as "one of the most significant decisions made for the Service in the past 25 years."

"We hope," he said, "that we will have set a sound pattern that will serve the state well into the 1980's."

"We stand in support of all educational opportunities for the people of Michigan," Ralston concluded, "but we feel we must draw some practical limits on the program of the Extension Service. No single organization has a monopoly on all the competencies needed for the broad diversity of educational interests and needs of the state."
